

FACILITATOR PROFILE

“Management works in the system;
Leadership works on the system.”
– Stephen R Covey

Jane Pardoe-Antoniades

Jane Pardoe-Antoniades is a Senior Consulting Partner with FranklinCovey Middle East. She has extensive experience in the areas of leadership and performance management, developing her skills during a successful and varied career path, covering numerous sectors and disciplines in as many international locations. As well as advising on corporate L&D strategies, Jane recently managed the inauguration of a major education project in Thailand. This diverse background has kept her at the forefront of advancement within the management development sphere.

Back in 2001, Jane channeled her knowledge and experience into the training arena, establishing herself as a leading consultant and facilitator, providing open public and in-house bespoke training for clients from a wide range of industry sectors and government departments. She has supported large multi-cultural teams in the analysis and implementation of business learning solutions designed to meet the needs of major companies in the Oil & Gas, Logistics, Education and Government sectors across South-East Asia and the GCC region.

Previously Jane held senior management positions at Serco Gulf Engineering, a joint venture between SERCO (UK) and Gulf Interstate Engineering (Houston, USA) providing facilities management services to the UK Ministry of Defence. She began her career at Glitsch Inc (a subsidiary of the global engineering and construction group, Foster Wheeler). She has advised, designed and delivered key skills training for clients such as Saudi Aramco, Qatar Petroleum, Tawam Hospital (part of Johns Hopkins group), Al Ain Hospital, Al Mafraq Hospital, Abu Dhabi Port Company, and divisions of the Abu Dhabi Oil Company – ZADCO, GASCO, ADMA-OPCO, ADNOC Distribution and Borouge.

Jane holds a degree in Accounting & Corporate Finance and Tourism Management from Oxford Brookes University and is finalising her Master of Education in Curriculum & Instruction. She holds a Certificate in Training/Learning & Development Practice and is a member of the Chartered Institute of Personal Development in London, the leading body for Learning & Development Professionals. She is a frequent contributor to several L&D publications.